Listening to those who haven't yet forgotten

"Let the little children come to me; do not stop them; for it is to such as these as the kingdom of God belongs." – Jesus, Mark 10:14

I recently heard an old Hebrew proverb: Just before a baby is born, the angel Gabriel tells them everything, all the secrets of God and the universe. Then, Gabriel kisses them on the forehead, they are born, and they begin to forget.

It's a lovely story. You can sort of picture it, can't you. Gabriel whispering into a baby's ear. The tiny kiss. And as a brand new parent, I think I can safely say ... nah. I love my daughter dearly, and I can't wait to see the woman she will grow up to be, but did she know secrets of God and the universe just a few short weeks ago? The evidence seems to point to no.

Still, that last line captivates and haunts me: they begin to forget. Now, I am one who believes that as children grow they learn to be kind. They learn to have faith. They learn who they are. They learn to say please, and they learn to repeat the Lord's Prayer, and they learn to tie their shoes. Like an empty sponge soaking up water, they learn and learn and learn. But still, I wonder if there is some truth that in all of that learning they also begin to forget something. Maybe not the secrets of the universe, but the idea of mystery. Maybe not the secrets of God, but the feel of the angel's kiss on the forehead.

And it isn't just the poetry of that line that captivates me. There is a lot of cynicism in our world, a lot of disbelief. The harsh realities of life beat that cynicism into us, and the abundance of it seeps into who we are, until it starts to feel normal. And then those who don't share in the cynicism are considered naïve, ignorant, childish. I don't know if we forget the secrets of the universe as we age, but maybe we forget to be comfortable with the universe having secrets. I don't know if we forget the secrets of God, but maybe we forget that there are secrets about God we just don't know. Secrets to marvel at and prod at. Secrets which give us hope for this world. Secrets which give more honesty to our prayers.

We can't go back. We can't ignore the realities of this world we've come to know. But we can invite that sort of infant knowledge into our community, into our presence, into our lives. We can sing songs with kids and pray prayers with them. We can let them tell us a Bible story, and look at their pictures of Jesus feeding the 5,000. We can remember that the children in our midst have something to show us, something we've all forgotten. We can't go back, but we can do that.

Islam Study Continues

Through the Board of Parish Education, we will continue to study Islam between services on June 12, 19, and 26. We will try to have a variety of resources and issues to discuss. Please join us.

Help us to keep up with you

If you have a change of address please contact the church office with your new address and/or phone number. This is for students as well. Thanks for your help.

What's Happening

Thank you to all who have answered the call to serve as executive committee members, board directors, and board members.

It's Summer!!! That means there are many summer activities going on at Ascension besides our renovation project. There are still many ways to get involved with our faith community over the summer. Here are but a few.

Join a small group doing outdoor activities. It is an awesome way to get to know others in our community of faith.

Discover Ascension classes continue into June with a new member Sunday.

Adult education will be continuing discussions on Islam in June.

VBS this summer will be run by Rainbow Trail staff. Be watching for items to help support VBS.

Be watching the newsletter and bulletin for further summer activities.

- Pastor Daniel Smith led devotions.

- Rex gave a summary of financial activities.

- The approved minutes of recent meetings are posted on the kiosk in the Fellowship Hall and are available in electronic format from the church office.

Building Committee Update

After almost 3 years (Paul Reu and Amy Torchinsky got the ball rolling in July 2013) we are getting ready for congregation approval of the winning contractor and of financing for the Facility Improvement Project. As of the time this article was submitted (May 16) the Regional Building Department review was completed and the bidders were working hard on preparing their bids. The bids will be reviewed the week of May 23 by the Building Committee followed by the CPC review leading to the recommendations coming to the congregation at the June 5 (9:15 AM) Congregational Meeting. Please attend this important meeting.

Capital Campaign contributions through May 8 totaled over $205,000. THANKS to all for your support. We will continue to monitor the amount of contributions received and then adjust the amount of work completed this summer to the funds available.

REMEMBER!!!! The facility will be a construction zone this summer. The CLC will occupy the bulk of the Lower Level. Fellowship Hall users will not have use of the kitchen. At times, other parts of the church facility will not be available. Hence, other than for Sunday Services, there will be very limited availability of this facility this summer. Please plan accordingly. Once the construction schedule is known, limited scheduling will be possible.

Bill Ayen, Building Committee Chair

Notes from the Music Room

Anyone can sing. Did you know? Recent research confirms what my own experience has always led me to believe: singing is more about singing regularly, than innate talent. A study presented in the journal Music Perception showed that, people improve dramatically in matching pitch and singing musical patterns correctly between kindergarten to sixth grade, when most children are singing regularly in school. However, that progress is largely lost by early adulthood in most people thanks to reduced singing throughout the teenage and adult years. As the study says, "Nobody expects adults who haven't picked up their trumpet since 5th grade to play with any skill, but we think that we either "have" or "don't have" a singing voice." The problem is usually on the output side of things, not the input: you enjoy listening to the music on the radio, and can tell who is a good singer on American Idol, but you can't do the same things with your own voice that you can appreciate in others. If you're singing along with hymns in church, you're already doing the first step toward keeping your vocal muscles in shape. But what else can people do? In England, shower singers are uniting to form "Can't Sing" Choirs! By singing together, they get good vocal exercise, but above all, have fun! Stayed tuned for more about what Ascension will do to keep people singing.

Make a joyful noise!
Megan

Zora is already part of a very kind community. –Pastor Daniel

Mercy's Gate/Interfaith Hospitality Network

Thank you for your continued support of this vital program to provide safe housing for homeless families in the Colorado Springs churches. Ascension hosted four families (5 adults and 9 children) on May 8-15. We had about 60 people help us in one way or another during that week by providing meals and supplies, serving meals, and interacting with our guest families. We had an interesting welcoming experience for a new family during our week. The family joined us on Thursday night. They called to say they were running late because of traffic, but they should be at Ascension by 6:15 PM. When they hadn't arrived by 7:00 PM, we attempted to call them but only got their voice mail. At 8:00 PM, we received a call from them asking where our IHN area was located. They called us from the Fellowship Area of our church. They had arrived at 6:15 PM, but entered our church from the upstairs parking lot and were met by a Native American Dance Group that was using our Fellowship Area for a dinner and then Indian dancing. Our new family was warmly welcomed by the upstairs group and they joined their dinner—they thought it was part of their new IHN experience. But by 8:00, the four children were getting tired and wondered where their sleeping area was. That's when their Mom called to see where Kathy and I were. I can only imagine what their initial thoughts were about their Ascension Lutheran IHN experience. Our next opportunity to support IHN will be at Beth-El Mennonite in late August. Feel free to contact John or Kathy Hayes at (719) 572-1052 or at kittypawz@aol.com if you have any questions about IHN.

Spiritual Well-being Survey

A team of ALC members dedicated to encouraging the congregation in living abundantly in Christ is connecting with the Penrose St. Francis Healthy Church Initiative. The Initiative seeks to connect health and faith. Their purpose is to “assist faith communities to build capacity within their members to more effectively serve – each other and the broader community – by enhancing the health – spiritual, emotional and physical – of their members.” This coming Fall, the team will lead the congregation in a ‘Spiritual Well-being survey’ that will help the team identify the health issues and concerns shared by members and provide programmatic efforts which can help address the needs of the community.

RUTH CIRCLE

There will be no Ruth Circle gatherings during June & July, but we plan on starting back up on August 11, depending on Construction details. Be watching for announcements.

Ladies, you have greatly blessed Parish Education and those of us who have been privileged to serve with you!
